Details of major programmes undertaken during 2017-18 are given.

PARTNERSHIP WITH FAMILY HEALTH INDIA (FHI)

Concurrent Monitoring For 'EMBED' Project On Malaria

FHI – the Indian chapter of FHI360 – is implementing a project 'Elimination of Mosquito Borne Diseases' (EMBED) in nine districts of Madhya Pradesh reaching out to about 1,65,000 households. Concurrent monitoring of the project was carried out by EID in nine districts collecting a sample of 3620 respondents.

A team of 36 field monitors worked for five weeks to collect samples across nine districts – Mandla, Dindori, Alirajpur, Jhabua, Sheopur, Shivpuri, Sidhi, Singrauli and Balaghat.

Data collected from the field was analysed and inputs were used to strengthen the on-going programme in Madhya Pradesh.

Somali women taste freedom with catering group

MACQUUL is already winning the hearts of food lovers in the city

When Farzana* and Jamila were forced to leave their home in Somalia for India, they had to start their lives from nothing. Still recovering from the trauma of having lost their partners and children and other family members to the conflict in Somalia, they were waking up to the harsh realities of surviving in Delhi. As single mothers with limited local language and vocational skills, the women began to do odd jobs as domestic help and cooks in small eateries.

Back in Somalia, both women pursued their passion for food. Farzana ran a juice stall and Jamila cooked in people's homes. Inspired by the Afghan refugee women's catering group ILHAM, these women decided to channelize their culinary and entrepreneurial spirit towards creating a Somali catering group. Supported by UNHCR Livelihoods and Self Reliance Project, the group is already winning the hearts of food lovers in the city and is a regular feature of many cultural/food festivals of the city.

"We wish to represent Somalia in the best possible manner through our cuisine" says Farzana, a mother of two teenagers. "I feel that people are already accepting our food and want to know where Somalia is," she says.

On the menu is Vimto, a popular drink made of grapes, raspberries and black currants. The most popular dishes are Canjeera Dalakh Bilash, which is closer to the Indian Dosa and looks similar to the Ethiopian Injera; Somali coffee, which has a dash of cardamom and Hilibari, the famous mutton biriyani. For desserts there is Qumbo Laddoo, made of coconut and Halwo with Peanuts, made from sugar, corn flour, cardamom and butter, with peanuts adding a crunchy element.

UNHCR India is supporting this new catering group by providing much needed business support training. Recently, they received training by the Envisions Institute of Development, which helped in better management and coordination of the group. "Working in a group has taught us to be patient. We learn from each other every day," says Farzana. "The women are gradually understanding the market and are willing to learn and grow," says Aditi Sabbarwal, Senior Livelihoods Assistant, UNHCR, India.

PARTNERSHIP WITH DCM SHRIRAM LTD

DCM Shriram group's sugar arm, DSCL Sugar, through its Khushali Sehat programme attempts to bridge these awareness and knowledge gaps in selected villages under its sugar mills' catchment areas in Uttar Pradesh. DSCL Sugar runs 4 sugar mills in UP (3 mills in Rupapur, Hariyawan and Loni in Hardoi district and one in Ajbapur in Lakhimpur district). Under their CSR programme they run "Khushhali-Sehat Pariyojana", on health and hygiene. Khushhali Sehat Pariyojana is being operated in 8-10 villages in the vicinity of each sugar mill. The programme was initiated in the year 2006 at Ajbapur mill and later on extended to other factory areas from 2009 onwards.

Impact Assessment Khushhali Sehat Programme

DSCL Sugar appointed EID to assess the effectiveness of their intervention being carried out under Khushhali Sehat Pariyojana. Findings of this impact study were used to strategize and rationalize the programme at the village level to further enhance its reach and effectiveness.

Twenty-three villages under the area of three sugar mills viz., Ajbapur, Hariyawan, and Loni were surveyed by our team. Data was collected from 362 community members from the project villages and 31 health service providers like Medical Officer, Auxiliary Nurse Midwife, Accredited Social Health Activist, Anganwadi Worker, Gram Pradhan, and other elected PRI members. Additionally, data was collected from 76 community members from three non-project villages to present a comparison between project and non-project villages.
